of the papers of this Union, a remedy so cheap and simple may be fully tested.

The Hog Cholera-A Remedy. Having seen in the papers the great destruction of hogs by 'chol era,' I take the liberty of sendir g you for publication the following receipt, which has proven an infallible cure. I have seen cases of hogs being so far gone as to be unable to stand up, perfectly Take one pint (not less) of wood ashes, one table spoonful of copperas, mixed with meal or bran, and give to the hog. If the hog is so far gone as not to be able or willing to eat, take the same quantity of ashes and copperas, and put it in water, and drench the hog. This would ap pear a strong dose; but when you doctor a hog, you must doctor him strong. It is an old saying that "An once of prevention is as good as a pound of cure. This I believe will hold good in the hos cholera; that by making a free use of ashes and copperas with the food, hogs will seldom, if ev er, have the cholera.

This remedy has proven to b "O K." here. Will some of you rural friends try the experimen and report result. I do not know what effect this would have o distillery hogs.

Respectfully yours, C. C. COOLEY.

Clover as a Manure.

A New York farmer says tha a crop of clover is worth a grea deal more for manure to plow under, than it is to feed it to stock. Every animal eating ton of clover, keeps back a large portion of it in bone and muscle and converts much of it into car bonic acid gas, all of which would otherwise be retained in the soil Form this we conclude that one of the best modes of enrichin; the a soil, is to plow in green crops especially clover. It should be done when the clover is ripe, as it is worth more at that time. It saves barns, carting and recarting, and keeps the soil in a healthy condition-very much like new soil. If you let the clo: ver ripen, the ground will be so plentifully filled with seed that it will not need re-stocking. We manure, when we should glorify

Third and Waluut Sts. inch in width, from a bearing branch, and surround the place with a ball of fat earth or loam, bound fast to the branch with a piece of matting; over this they suspend a pot, or horn with wabottom, just sufficient to let the water drop in order to keep the purpose to couldnet the business of the purpose to couldnet the business of the earth constantly moist. The branch throws new roots into the earth, just above the place where the ring was stripped off. The operation is performed in the vision of spring, and the branch is sawn off and put in the ground at the fall of the leaf.
